objection to scheduling order

introduction

This lawsuit pertains to Plaintiff's wrongful conviction in which plaintiff seeks ~~constitutional~~ Mandated Discovery from Defendants as to which he has not been able to obtain concerning actual innocence claims in the SOUTHERN DISTRICT of California Case 001193
GPC-PCC

file a state tort Case 045638 Dunsmore
v GME Label Viking et al in Solano County COURT House State of California in order to secure constitutionally mandated Discovery to support his claims of actual innocence in the 9th cir in order to obtain a COA and Brief the issues

Plaintiff objects to the schedule order because he is a pro se litigant, incarcerated with physical disabilities requiring assistance to dress transfer both it being extremely difficult for plaintiff to timely pursue this litigation Exhibit A

Any argument concerning the late filing of this objection is mute according to Prison Mail box and that plaintiff did not timely receive the Demand Notice until 9/18/15 due to transfer to a medical facility in California California Healthcare facility in Stockton Plaintiff should thus ~~not~~ be bound to the terms of the scheduling order

Issues That should be presented to the Bankruptcy Court

The plaintiff is seeking exculpatory Discovery which is constitutionally mandated and interference in the pursuit of said evidence would be a manifest injustice of keeping an otherwise actually innocent individual incarcerated for a longer period

That has been directly caused by The misconduct of General Motors Corp That fraudulently sold millions of defective parts endangering the lives of customers and the general public and when the company was finally rendered defunct by these fraudulent actions that bled the company of all financial stability except its brand name conspired with the new GM N/A Motors liquidation company to rid its self of massive liabilities through clever manipulation of rules of law contrary to the rules of Prof Conduct 3-210 The Attornies knowingly assisted each other and solicited the violation of California Rules of professional conduct or state bar Act Bus & PC §§6000-6328, Cal Rules of Prof Cond 1-120 by concealing suppressing Destroying and removing evidence of their fraudulent

Public and The plaintiff unknowingly solicited the Court to Assist in these illegal acts through clever manipulation of the bankruptcy laws of liquidation in violation of The Cal Penal Code 11134-135 Price v state bar (1982) 30 C3d 537-139 which The Attornys continue to ignore The Rule of law Denying Plaintiff Constitutionally Mandated discovery causing this plaintiff to suffer a wrongful conviction and a lengthy stay of incarceration while plaintiff attempts to convince the Court of his actual innocence and the merits of his claims vaughting around The New York harbor and world while plaintiffs life has been completely destroyed by the Defendants Fraudulent acts and clever un ethical Manipulation of the rule of law Bus & PC 6068(d)

cal Rules of prof cond 5-200 (B) Di Sebastino v state bar (1980) 27 C3d 159 162 CR 458

Despite The known plight of plaintiff Through Correspondance and litigation The Defendants continue to thumb their nose at the law and are indifferent to the harm they are causing plaintiff by willful concealment, destruction and alteration of of evidence in the form of Documents of records that support petitioners claims of innocence and the malfunction of The Vehicle which was erroneously Declared a weapon due to the actions of The Defendants both new and old GM OWNERS as The simple sale of The Corporation Did not Void The Defendants responsibilities to reveal evidence of crimes committed. They are willing Co Conspirators once They decided to destroy, Alter and conceal evidence They hunted in The sale of GMC Corp in The form of Documents which revealed The Massive fraud old GM committed.

The Defendants New GM can not argue they had no knowledge of alleged defective parts or that Documents may not have been exculpatory evidence as supported in Exhibit B GM Test drivers were aware of The ignition problems in 2006 Two years prior to The sale The NHTSA crash report made mention of The ignition problem.

The Defendants and Attornies could have reasonably argued against liabilities if they had chosen to reveal and disclose The nature of The fraud and defective

Chapter 11 does not relieve The New GM owners of liabilities if they fail in their ethical and legal duties to disclose acts of fraud and other criminal conduct which they were aware of before the time of sale at the time of sale and after the sale

nor of its responsibility to Release to Plaintiff the exculpatory evidence Defendant's have knowledge of that would release Plaintiff of his wrongful conviction and support his actual innocence claims that

The defective malfunctioning vehicle not petitioner was responsible for the incident hold petitioner incarcerated in Case 001193 GPC PC Southern District of California for these reasons the schedule should be modified for this plaintiff as this judges own opinion in Exhibit B P 11 cite 41 stating the denial of relief could be more so than the continued incarceration of an actually innocent individual wrongfully convicted because of the acts of Defendants to conceal exculpatory evidence the would relieve plaintiff of the wrongful conviction

I Declare under penalty of perjury the foregoing is True

under California law once New GM acquired the assets and Documents of Misconduct of old GM they forfeit their liability protection by becoming Co Conspirators According Penal Code 135 To Destroy and conceal Documentary evidence as the New GM Defendants in this case and were Accessories according to penal Code 32 help the alleged Principal of the Crimes old GM as defined in Penal code 31 to avoid trial and Conviction of felonies committed by old GM

New GM Actions were an Accessory as defined by penal Code 32 and forfeited liability protection The New defendants New GM continue to Violate California law of penal Code 135 by Concealing and refusing Destroying evidence of plaintiff's innocence in plaintiff's criminal wrongful Conviction Case 001193 - GPC - PCI If Defendants are not accessories to the Crimes of old GM then they should immediately release all exculpatory evidence and fulfill promptly all plaintiff's Discovery requests

Plaintiff ~~Contractors~~ ~~New GM~~ ~~actions~~ speak for themselves and that of their legal petitioner his right to constitutionally mandated discovery and claim they are while breaking state local and constitutional nullifying liability protection by bankruptcy

For these reasons the briefing schedule

SECTION 4
OCT 23 2015

The massive ongoing recall of General Motors vehicles with faulty ignition switches (and the dozen years the company spent not issuing a recall) has made headlines, launched lawsuits, angered legislators, but many consumers who don't own a recalled car have shrugged and said, "Glad I don't drive one of them."

One small defect in a part that controls a car's ignition switch: that's what's at the root of a massive car recall linked to at least thirteen deaths. The cars all came from General Motors brands sold for most of a decade — and as we now know, someone, somewhere knew about the fatal potential of that defect for as long as it existed. The ignition switch problem affects everyone who drives a GM car. But the way that the defect was allowed to remain in the production line for so long affects nearly everyone who drives or shares roads with cars — whether you've ever set foot in a GM vehicle or not.

The GM ignition switch recall started in February with an announcement about 778,000 compact cars. Over the months since then, the recall list has expanded to include about 2.6 million Saturn Ion (2003-2007), Chevrolet Cobalt (2005-2010), Chevrolet HHR (2006-2011), Pontiac G5 (2007-2010), Pontiac Solstice (2006-2010), and Saturn Sky (2007-2010) vehicles. (GM has also recalled another three million cars this year for other, unrelated issues.)

MORE THAN JUST A RECALL

The recall, though, isn't just a recall. It's led to an investigation that has shown that GM and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) were, between them, peripherally aware of the defect for over ten years. Let's take a quick, summary review of key moments in the timeline of events:

- .2001-2002: The first report of a switch problem shows up in pre-production notes for the 2002 Saturn Ion.
- .2005: GM realizes the Chevy Cobalt has a problem with the ignition switch and opens repeated engineering inquiries, but takes no action.
- .2006: GM test drivers become aware of the ignition problem. GM makes some repairs, but mixes older, defective part and newer, improved part under same item number, causing years' worth of confusion.

.2007: A NHTSA crash report makes mention of the ignition switch turning itself off. NHTSA proposes opening an investigation, but decides not to.

.2010: After more accidents and deaths, NHTSA once again considers, but then decides against, opening a formal investigation.

.2012-2013: GM internal testing finds that no, really, these ignition switches are broken.

.2014: GM finally issues recalls due to the faulty part, totaling roughly 2.6 million vehicles.

At least 13 people were killed (and possibly more) due to this particular defect in that 13-year span, and dozens of other drivers complained about it. But between the start of the problem in 2001 and the enormous and very public recalls in 2014, a few things changed at GM. And by "a few things," we mean "everything."

GENERAL MOTORS IS DEAD. LONG LIVE GENERAL MOTORS.

The early years of the 21st century were not among GM's best. It's easy to see why a GM at the time was so desperately concerned with cutting costs wherever possible: after a high point in 1999, their annual sales numbers began to drop slowly but steadily from 2000 onward. They posted significant losses in 2005, 2006, and 2007, and so were already off to a rough start in 2008.

Then came, well, 2008 — a now-infamous year of domestic and international economic crisis. In the space of less than a year, everything tanked: the housing market collapsed, giant megabanks began flailing wildly, energy prices jumped, and the automotive industry found itself in dire straits.

The combination of a less-than-great half-decade and an international near-collapse of the industry was a one-two punch that GM couldn't withstand. In Nov. 2008 the company announced that without drastic action, they'd be out of cash and out of business by the middle of 2009.

Ford, Chrysler, and GM all testified before Congress in Dec. 2008 to the effect that the U.S. car industry, that most American of industries, was going to collapse in on itself without an infusion of federal bailout cash. Congress declined to hand over money, but GM did get a "bridge loan" from the Bush administration to keep it afloat while a longer-term solution could be worked out.

Between Dec. 2008 and March 2009, things failed in any way to get better for GM as they kept moving through a back-and-forth of proposed business plans to and with the federal government. On March 30, 2009, the Obama administration announced that the government would not be handing GM a mountain of cash, but that a detailed restructuring plan including Chapter 11 bankruptcy had been worked out in order to save the company. GM officially filed for Chapter 11 reorganization in a New York court on June 1, 2009.

Under the terms of that Chapter 11 filing, a new corporate entity called NGMCO Inc. — the “new” GM corporation — purchased all of GM’s “continued operational assets.” As part of the terms of sale, NGMCO, Inc., changed its name to “General Motors” and kept all of GM’s brands, logos, and trademarks. In one fell swoop, GM ceased to be GM, the troubled corporation with a pile of liabilities, and became GM, the newer, leaner corporation that conveniently left all its liabilities sitting in a trash heap near the door when it walked out.

As for that mess next to the door, the “Old GM” still had to clean it up. Having let the New GM walk off with its name and branding, the remnants of Old GM became the Motors Liquidation Company. That company has been working its way through the bankruptcy, liability, and debtor process ever since.

The New GM, about 60% owned by the U.S. Department of the Treasury, promptly shed jobs, dealerships, manufacturing facilities, and car brands. (Remember Pontiac, Saturn, Hummer, and Saab?) And most critically, they also shed liability for anything they did back when they were still the original GM.

LEAVING BEHIND THE BLAME

Several states’ attorneys general, perhaps having a collective moment of clairvoyance, filed an objection to the liability exception part of GM’s bankruptcy agreement, saying that potential later accident victims could lose “key legal rights” if it went through. (The Wall Street Journal ran a detailed explainer of the relevant legal aspects back in 2009.) Under the pressure, GM eventually agreed to somewhat expand the scope of its liability to accident victims.

The gist of the change meant that, “[C]onsumers driving old GM cars who get in accidents during GM's several weeks in bankruptcy court, or after the new GM emerges, will be able to sue new GM."

At the time, then-Connecticut Attorney General Richard Blumenthal, one of the attorneys general who filed the objection, said:

"This agreement captures a very significant group of claims that wouldn't have been covered and is a very significant victory for consumer advocates. It may seem symbolic, but it will be very real and important to people who suffered injuries during this period of time, and it sets a highly significant precedent."

That GM product liability pact is now front and center in the wake of the recall. GM is trying to get lawsuits against it held on the grounds of the restructuring, claiming liability protection.

Former Connecticut AG Blumenthal is now United States Senator Blumenthal, and he's no less concerned about the new GM's liabilities for the old GM's actions than he was in 2009. In late March, he pressed the Justice Department to make sure that GM stays liable for GM's actions. At the time, he told Consumerist, "There is a very powerful legal and moral responsibility on the part of the federal government to intervene here. They enabled GM to emerge from reorganization with very extensive protections from legal responsibility for the death, injuries, and damage their defective vehicles caused."

NOW WHAT?

Well, that's really the billion-dollar question.

It will take months, if not years, for the Justice Department to carry out its criminal investigation and determine if charges are warranted. Getting the various civil suits sorted out will probably take even longer still. GM, in some way, will need to compensate the car owners, accident victims, and surviving families of those who were killed due to this error. That complicated question of how much legal liability GM actually bears for their own error and cover-up will be a key factor in every proceeding.

But the most pressing question for the future isn't about GM at all. Although this recall is massive, and GM's particular tie to American taxpayers and the federal government is at play, this defect and this question of liability aren't the central issues we're facing.

Instead, the real problem that the GM disaster has brought to light is that nearly 250 million registered cars on the road in the United States... and 51 ODI employees to make sure that we all stay safe around them. Of those 51 employees a little over half are investigators, Bloomberg reports. It makes for a ratio of about 8.6 million cars on the road for every defect investigator NHTSA has. The agency also receives more than 40,000 consumer complaints per year — and of course, not every consumer who has reason to make a safety complaint ever bothers to do so. NHTSA's 2015 budget for investigating defects is about $10.6 million, and it's been in that $10 million ballpark for years.

With those odds, it starts to feel surprising that NHTSA actually catches as many problems as it does.

28 investigators can only capture so much data first-hand. In order to act, NHTSA relies on data from the car companies themselves. When the companies take their own sweet time providing it, as GM has been doing, the safety review process hits a bottleneck... and just stops going anywhere at all.

So where do we sit today?

Consumers are aware of the problems, but the defective GM cars are still on the road. GM is paying meager fines of $7000 per day (from their 2013 revenue of $3.8 billion) for each day they miss their deadline for providing data to NHTSA. And thirteen people who were driving or riding in cars that had one small, faulty part in them are still dead.

Whatever this investigation uncovers about this particular defect, this tragic incident spotlights the fact that there are systemic problems with carmakers for whom lives are but data points on a cost/profit sheet and with regulators who ignore their own investigators' reports. Until those underlying issues are remedied, it's only a matter of time until another vehicle with a deadly defect is not only allowed to hit the road, but stay there for far too long.

objection to any Motion to strike,

this plaintiff

Introduction

This plaintiff's Complaint Exhibit A Directly attacks The Conduct of The New GM in Solano Superior Court state of

Lobel, Viking et al

This plaintiff contends that the Defendants present conduct has and is voiding their liability protection when the New GM began to violate state local and constitutional law of California when they failed to release disclose or hand over exculpatory constitutionally mandated discovery and began to destroy, or conceal documentary evidence petitioner has been forced to seek through his state tort after failure to respond to correspondence request for documentary evidence in possession of the Defendants Exhibit B

Once the Defendants New GM began to conduct themselves in this manner depriving petitioner of constitutionally mandated discovery which would prove his actual innocence claims in his writ of Habeas on conviction in the Southern District of California Case 001193 GPC PCI The New Defendants became accessories under California law Penal Code 32 to the principle Defendants the old GM as defined by Penal Code 31 voiding their otherwise legitimate liability protection. However these acts to deprive petitioner of evidence in their possession and knowledge of successor of old GM assets in the form of exculpatory documentation that support the malfunction plaintiffs vehical, the alleged weapon as the cause of the accident and not intent of the plaintiff in the alleged criminal conduct which plaintiff now only continues to suffer from because the acts of the New GM to conceal destroy evidence in violation of Penal Code 135 thereby concealing the action of the principle as defined in Penal Code 31 to prevent prosecution in a court establishes the New GM Defendant as Accessories as defined in Penal Code section 32 for fixing NEW GM'S liability protection, Dismissal of this Plaintiff action and any motion to strike or stay this plaintiffs Action or claims

Nor can any injunction supercede Plaintiffs legal right to the evidence

a question which plaintiff seeks which is constitutionally mandated any continued refusal clearly supports plaintiffs claims of fraud including to this court where they allege not to be in concert with the old GM Defendants actions yet continue to attempt to protect the principle cause the old GM Defendant with actions that define and describe the New GM Defendants as accessories in the old GM Defendants conduct according penal code

32

As declared by the New GM Defendants they became successor in of the old GM Defendants assets which happened to be documentary evidence which supports plaintiffs claims of actual innocence in which petitioner seeks to overturn his wrongful conviction

However at this time it is the New GM Defendants choice to refuse the discovery and evidence request in violation penal code 135 that they know is to be used in trial and are concealing and destroying in violation of California and Constitutional law

4 of 5

Plaintiff also argues Defendants did not provide Notice to individuals housed in County Jail thereby depriving at least this Plaintiff of his due process to file a claim in a timely manner Exhibit C

Defendants should of made attempts to have jailed inmates notified with posted memorandums in County Jail's Defendants should allow and compensate this Plaintiff on any late filing as the declared they would provide to the Court Compensation

Plaintiff contends New GM Defendants action have barred them from taking any action against this complaint through The Bankruptcy Court

Plaintiff further request a Declaratory order Directing New GM Defendants from Destroying or concealing any more Documentary evidence in this and plaintiff's case in question

I Declare under penalty of perjury the foregoing is true

Argument

Plaintiff's Complaint attacks conduct of The (New GM Defendants) who according to state, local and Constitutional law established Themselves as independent actors Accessories
To The Crimes and Misconduct of The Penal Code 31 Principals Defined

(Who are principals All persons concerned in the commission of a crime whether it be felony or misdemeanor and whether they directly commit the act constituting the offense or aid and abet in its commission and all persons counseling, advising)

Penal Code 32 Accessories defined (Every person who after a felony has been committed harbors conceals or aids a principal in such felony with the intent that said principal may avoid or escape from arrest trial conviction or punishment having knowledge that said principal has committed such felony or has been charged with such felony or convicted thereof is an accessory to such felony)

According to PC 31 The New GM established it self as Accessories after having knowledge of said principals crimes which it attested to in its own filings with this court with in the meaning of PC 32 see any brief motion filed by Defendants when they independently choose to conceal destroy documentary evidence after plaintiff made request and notice of pending investigation and trial action with in the meaning of

Penal Code 135 Destroy OR CONCEALING
Documentary evidence

(Every person who, knowing that any book, paper record instrument in writing or other matter or thing is about to be produced in evidence upon any trial inquiry or investigation what ever authorized by law willfully destroys or conceals the same with intent thereby to prevent it from being produced is guilty)

Plaintiff made the inquiry through correspondence notified the New GM of pending actions according Penal Code 135 and Defendants New GM made independent action to deprive plaintiff of constitutionally mandated discovery conceal destroy said documentary evidence which support petitioners claim in a writ of habeas concerning the wrongful conviction of one actually innocent Case 00A193 GPC PC Southern District of California

Said Documentary evidence supports the merits of plaintiff's claims that the incident was not intentional on plaintiff part but occurred because the malfunction of the product sold by the old GM Defendants and their misconduct

Plaintiff's Cause of Action Directly attacks the present conduct of GM Defendants (The New GM Defendants) which action causes them to become Accessories to The old GM Defendants) conduct (The principals) when the New Defendants (New GM) took the present action to conceal, Destroy exculpatory evidence of The (old GM Defendants) conduct which Plaintiff's Complaint was filed see Exhibit A Cause of Action (Fraud)

Plaintiff contends that if The New GM Defendants had simply complied with plaintiff request concerning evidence of exculpatory nature of malfunctioning defective parts New GM's liabilities protection would be in full force against plaintiff and there would be no cause of action but New GM Defendants did not choose that action but instead to conceal and destroy Constitutionally mandated Discovery and attempts to manipulate this court into an accessory as well to its crimes and those of Old GM People v

(Counsel for The Defendant New GM must disclose People v Meredith (1981) 29 CA3d 682 696 175 CR 612

As Supported by Certificate of Notice Page 39 of 89 Plaintiff was in Jail at ~~Time~~ time of Notice to file a Claim with the old & Defendant Plaintiff. argues Defendants did not provide due Diligence To individuals in Jail Concerning Due process rights as Plaintiff access to TV, Radio, print and all restricted The Magnitude of The Misconduct was massive enough to move for Memorandum posting in institution were such restrictions exist Imbler v Pachtman

NOTICE

- Plaintiff must file this cover sheet with the first paper filed in the action or proceeding (except small claims cases or cases filed under the Probate Code, Family Code, or Welfare and Institutions Code). (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 3.220.) Failure to file may result in sanctions.
- File this cover sheet in addition to any cover sheet required by local court rule.
- If this case is complex under rule 3.400 et seq. of the California Rules of Court, you must serve a copy of this cover sheet on all other parties to the action or proceeding.
- Unless this is a collections case under rule 3.740 or a complex case, this cover sheet will be used for statistical purposes only.

INSTRUCTIONS ON HOW TO COMPLETE THE COVER SHEET

To Plaintiffs and Others Filing First Papers. If you are filing a first paper (for example, a complaint) in a civil case, you must complete and file, along with your first paper, the Civil Case Cover Sheet contained on page 1. This information will be used to compile statistics about the types and numbers of cases filed. You must complete items 1 through 6 on the sheet. In item 1, you must check one box for the case type that best describes the case. If the case fits both a general and a more specific type of case listed in item 1, check the more specific one. If the case has multiple causes of action, check the box that best indicates the primary cause of action. To assist you in completing the sheet, examples of the cases that belong under each case type in item 1 are provided below. A cover sheet must be filed only with your initial paper. Failure to file a cover sheet with the first paper filed in a civil case may subject a party, its counsel, or both to sanctions under rules 2.30 and 3.220 of the California Rules of Court.

To Parties in Rule 3.740 Collections Cases. A "collections case" under rule 3.740 is defined as an action for recovery of money owed in a sum stated to be certain that is not more than $25,000, exclusive of interest and attorney's fees, arising from a transaction in which property, services, or money was acquired on credit. A collections case does not include an action seeking the following: (1) tort damages, (2) punitive damages, (3) recovery of real property, (4) recovery of personal property, or (5) a prejudgment writ of attachment. The identification of a case as a rule 3.740 collections case on this form means that it will be exempt from the general time-for-service requirements and case management rules, unless a defendant files a responsive pleading. A rule 3.740 collections case will be subject to the requirements for service and obtaining a judgment in rule 3.740.

To Parties in Complex Cases. In complex cases only, parties must also use the Civil Case Cover Sheet to designate whether the case is complex. If a plaintiff believes the case is complex under rule 3.400 of the California Rules of Court, this must be indicated by completing the appropriate boxes in items 1 and 2. If a plaintiff designates a case as complex, the cover sheet must be served with the complaint on all parties to the action. A defendant may file and serve no later than the time of its first appearance a joinder in the plaintiff's designation, a counter-designation that the case is not complex, or, if the plaintiff has made no designation, a designation that the case is complex.

MAIN ST., EL CAJON, CA 92020-3941 <input type="checkbox"/> SOUTH COUNTY DIVISION, 500 3RD AVE., CHULA VISTA, CA 91910-5649		FILED MICHAEL M. RODDY Clerk of the Superior Court
PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA		May 09, 2008
VS.		By _____, Deputy
DARRYL DUNSMORE	PLAINTIFF,
AKA: DARRYL LEE DUNSMORE	DEFENDANT	MH MH 102411
JUDGMENT OF MENTAL INCOMPETENCY AND ORDER FOR COMMITMENT (Penal Code 1370 & 1372(a)(2))		CRIMINAL CASE NUMBER M 042269
		CS 218128 01; CS 215653 01
		BBA96501; BBA01401; misd

The above case came on regularly for hearing this date. Based upon the evidence presented the Court finds that the defendant is mentally incompetent.

The Court further finds:

- Antipsychotic medication may be given to the defendant as prescribed by a treating psychiatrist pursuant to the defendant's consent. If the defendant refuses to or withdraws consent for antipsychotic medication, after the treating psychiatrist complies with the provisions of this code, the defendant shall be returned to court for a hearing regarding whether antipsychotic medication shall be administered involuntarily.
- The defendant lacks capacity to make a decision regarding antipsychotic medication. The defendant's mental disorder requires medical treatment with antipsychotic medication, and if the defendant's mental disorder is not treated with antipsychotic medication, it is possible that serious harm to the physical or mental health of the patient will result.
- The defendant is a danger to others in that the defendant has inflicted, attempted to inflict, or made a serious threat of inflicting substantial physical harm on another while in custody; or the defendant had inflicted, attempted to inflict, or made a serious threat of inflicting substantial physical harm on another that resulted in his or her being taken into custody; and the defendant presents, as a result of mental disorder or mental defect, a demonstrated danger of inflicting substantial physical harm on others.
- The people have charged the defendant with a serious crime against the person or property of another; involuntary administration of antipsychotic medication is substantially likely to render the defendant competent to stand trial; the medication is unlikely to have side effects that will interfere with the defendant's ability to understand the nature of the criminal proceedings or to assist counsel in the conduct of a defense in a reasonable manner; less intrusive treatments are unlikely to have substantially the same results; and antipsychotic medication is in the patient's best medical interest in light of his or her medical condition.

WHEREFORE, IT IS ORDERED that said defendant is committed to Patton State Hospital, or such other institution as may be directed by the Director, State Department of Health, for care and treatment until such time as provided by law or until further order of the Court.

The Sheriff shall redeliver the defendant to the court without any further order from the court upon receiving from the state hospital or treatment facility a copy of a certificate of restoration.

The maximum sentence on the most serious offense is 4 YEARS. Commit to Patton State Hospital for 3 YEARS. Defendant is to be given credit for time served of 56 days.
